

“LEGO® IN TRAIN WORLD” COMPETITION RULES

Article 1: Subject and Organiser

As part of its collaboration with LEGO® (from 02/10/2018 to 31/01/2019), Train World (the Organiser) domiciled at 5, Place Princesse Élisabeth in Schaerbeek (1030) is organising a competition for the duration of the “LEGO® IN TRAIN WORLD” event. This competition will be split into 2 parts: LEGO DUPLO and LEGO, at the participants’ choice.

Article 2: Entry conditions

2.1. Any physical person may enter the competition, with the exception of those involved in the running of this competition (Train World and LEGO® and Amazings employees and their families). This competition is exclusively reserved to paying visitors to Train World for the duration of the LEGO® in Train World event.

2.2. The Organiser agrees to one entry per adult visitor (having reached the age of majority). Participants in the “LEGO® in Train World Enigma” experience will be granted one additional entry form per participating child.

2.3. Point 2.2. also applies in the case of school group visitors. The Organiser agrees to one entry per accompanying adult visitor.

2.4. By entering the competition, the participant agrees to these rules, without limitation or reservation, and renounces any recourse against decisions taken by the community, its partners and the members on the jury of this competition.

2.5. Any incomplete entry or entry that does not meet the requirements of these rules shall be considered null and void. Should the participant fail to respect these rules, his or her entry shall be withdrawn from the competition.

2.6. Train World reserves the right, at any time, to suspend, cancel, defer or postpone this competition, or change its terms and conditions without any liability on its part. The rules shall be updated accordingly as and when required.

Article 3: Competition process

To take part, each participant must fill in the entry form during their visit to Train World. Two observation-based questions shall be asked, along with one additional question.

The additional question shall change every 2 months. A response to this additional question is mandatory for valid entry into the competition. Any entry that does not meet these criteria shall be considered null and void.

For the entry to be valid, the answers given to the competition questions must be correct. The winners will be selected based on their answer to the additional question in a ranking from the nearest to the farthest from the correct answer. If there are too many to give the same answer (compared to the number of lots to be distributed), the winners will be designated by lot.

Article 4: Validity dates

This competition begins on the 2nd October 2018 at 10 a.m. and ends on the 31st January 2019 at 5 p.m. It takes place on all Train World opening days (from Tuesday to Sunday). Entries received after the deadline has passed shall not be taken into account.

This competition is organised on a monthly basis.

5.1. Awarding of prizes

Each month, the list of competition winners shall be announced on the Train World website. The winners shall also be informed by email in the month following their entry. The prize they have won shall be delivered by post to the address provided on their entry form.

5.2. Prizes cannot be exchanged nor can a cash alternative be offered.

5.3. The prize cannot be split and must be accepted as awarded.

5.4. Train World may, at any time, modify a prize and replace it by an equivalent alternative on production or content grounds.

Article 6: Train World's liability

6.1. Train World cannot be held liable for the non-delivery of a prize if the participant provided insufficient, incomplete or erroneous contact information on their entry form.

6.2. Train World cannot be held liable for any errors or failures of the post office and/or express delivery companies during the delivery of a prize, such as delays, damages, strikes, or the loss or non-issuance of a missed delivery card in the case of a signed-for delivery. This list is not exhaustive.

6.3. Typographical, printing, spelling or other errors, as well as technical problems (including email communications) cannot be invoked to justify any obligation on Train World's part.

6.4. Train World does not accept any responsibility in the event that it is obligated or deems it necessary to postpone, suspend or cancel the competition, or reduce its duration.

6.5. Train World cannot be held liable for any prize defects or if the prize does not meet the created expectations. If the prize includes items that come with a consumer goods warranty, the warranty rights must be enacted directly by the winner to the manufacturer or importer.

Article 7: Personal data

By entering his or her details on the competition entry form, the participant expressly gives his or her consent for Train World to collect and process this data, to identify them and contact them within the context of the competition, in accordance with the terms described in its privacy policy which may be consulted on the Train World website (<http://www.trainworld.be/en/privacy-cookies>).

The participant's personal data may be transmitted to other physical or legal persons who are co-organisers of the competition, notably LEGO. These third parties act as "processing managers" during the performance of said processing or other personal data processing to identify them and contact them within the context of the competition (for the sending of prizes, for example). For more information, Train World refers the participant to its co-organisers' privacy terms.

By entering the competition, the participant consents to the publishing of certain personal data (surname and first name) by Train World on its website, amongst other things, strictly within the context of the competition.

Participants may request access to their data, amend any erroneous data or have it deleted from the Train World database. Moreover, participants also have the right to consult or oppose, free of charge, the processing and transmission of their data by simply sending an email to the following address: privacy@trainworld.be

Personal data shall be held until one month after the competition's closure. It shall then be destroyed unless Train World has a legal obligation to hold onto the data for a longer period of time or unless the participant has informed them that they would like to be notified about Train World news when filling in the entry form. In the event that a problem is encountered when sending a letter, parcel or other delivery, within the context of the competition, Train World may store the data until any disputes and processes relating to the competition have been settled.

Train World takes all technical and organisational measures to protect personal data against any violation.

Article 8: Consultation of the rules

8.1. By entering the competition, the participant fully accepts the terms of these competition rules in their entirety. Through his or her participation, he or she confirms prior acknowledgement and acceptance of all decisions Train World shall take in relation to the competition. All communications relating to the competition shall be acknowledged as part of the rules.

8.2. Train World may modify the rules of the competition at any time.

8.3 These rules shall be published on the Train World website (<http://www.trainworld.be>) and may, if desired, be printed from the website.

Article 9: Disputes

These competition rules and the legal relationship between Train World and the participant within the context of the competition to which these rules apply fall under Belgian law.

Any disputes between Train World and the participant relating to the interpretation, execution and effects of these competition rules fall under the exclusive jurisdiction of the tribunals of Brussels.
