Train World

In this historic building, Train World displays not only Belgium's most valuable engines and carriages, but also a large number of railway artefacts, unique archival documents, photographs and films, all spectacularly showcased.

Since its opening in September 2015, the SNCB museum has enabled over 750,000 visitors to relive the history of Belgium's railways with a combination of spectacular items from its collections and an outstanding interactive setting.

The results of the visitor satisfaction survey performed at Train World during the last quarter of 2019 speak for themselves: 97% of visitors were "extremely satisfied" with their visit.

For the question "Would you recommend a visit to Train World to your friends, family or colleagues?", our NPS¹ score was 68.

To date, Train World ranks fifth in the list of Brussels attractions most highly recommended by TripAdvisor and third out of the 123 Brussels museums recommended by the same site.

¹ The NPS, or Net Promoter Score, is an indicator of the likelihood that a product, brand or service will be recommended by its customers or users.

Train World has also received excellent feedback on the following reference sites: 5/5 on Facebook, 4.6/5 on Google and 4.5/5 on TripAdvisor.

Also, Train World has earned a 3-star rating in the renowned Michelin Green Guide for the fourth consecutive year. This maximum score, which means "worth the trip", is the ultimate accolade for both the designers and the Train World team, who have made it a leading museum in Brussels and internationally.

An absolute must-see, whatever your age!

No time to go to Train World? No problem! To ensure an optimal online experience whatever the circumstances, Train World also operates its very own fanshop. We have something for everyone, from interested visitors to hardcore railway buffs.
